HAPPY DAYS

"Jim! Come on in here. I want to talk to you. And bring in some wood when you come."

And that is the way the fire wood was coaxed into the house every fall. But Jim liked the method and it worked every time. And what comfort they found in that wonderful heater—

Cole's Original Air-Tight Wood Stove

The rooms were always cosy and warm. Every morning found plenty of fire still in the stove, ready to immediately re-kindle the fresh wood. No time lost in making a fresh fire. No ashes to lug out daily—once a month was often enough. Comfort and economy always—Why not, when they had the best wood-burning stove made? The only stove of absolute Air-Tight, Stay-Tight construction, without which fire control is impossible. If you want comfort—lots of it—at little expense, come in, and see this remarkable stove.

The Youth's Companion in 1914.

Seven college presidents and a number of college instructors, including ex-President Taft, will contribute to The Youth's Companion during 1914. Then there is Gene Stratton Porter, whose stories of Indiana woods and swamps have made her famous, and Kate Douglas Wiggin, who never wrote a dull line in her life, and Mrs. Burton Harrison, who remembers when conversation was really an art as practised in Washington and in the manor houses at Virginia. And this is just a beginning of the list.

If you know The Companion, you have a pretty clear idea of what is in store for the next year's readers. If you do not know, ask us to send you sample copies—for instance, those containing the opening chapters of Arthur Standwood Pier's fine serial—"His Father's Son." Full Announcement for 1914 will be sent with the sample copies. For the year's subscription of $2.00 there is included The Companion Practical Home Calendar for 1914, and all the issues of the paper for the remaining weeks of 1913, dating from the time the subscription is received. THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 144 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass.

From Mr. Hilburn.
DEAR BRO. AKE—I take this from the Liberator of Magnolia, Arkansas:
"That currency bill. Let's see. Goes sorter this way; you want to establish a National Bank. You deposit, say, $100,000 with the government; they give you $100,000 worth of government bonds and pay you 6 per cent interest. Then on the $100,000 bond you issue $90,000 bank notes. These you loan to the people at, say, ten per cent; now add the interest paid by the bank's customers, 10 per cent, and if we "figure" right, that is only 18 per cent, and the banker gets interest on $90,000 of his own debts which he has loaned to the people. Great, isn't it? We Democrats were going to fix it right, and we have taken the Aldrich system and worked it over, made a dozen central banks, instead of one, and that's the difference between the Republican plan and the Democratic plan. Just change the label on the can and hand out the same goods."

I don't know whether the above is a correct statement of currency bill or not. I am not familiar with its details, but I do know that for the past 24 years that I have been a reader of the REGISTER it has denounced the national banking system in season, and out of season, and I am not so sure but the Aldrich bill came in for a share of its denunciation. I am still in favor of a currency issued by the government direct to the people and let the bankers get hold of it like other people, by rendering an equivalent.

Formerly the REGISTER and your humble scribe were in accord on this great and important question. How do you stand now, Brother Ake? Does changing the label on the can make the fruit taste any better? Respectfully,
F. P. HILBURN.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—The recent move of Huerta, the Usurping Ruler of Mexico, has gone a long way towards rendering a conflict with Mexico inevitable, as the announcement last week that henceforth he will exercise the prerogatives of a dictator is an act that President Wilson will not tolerate. Neither will President Wilson recognize anyone as President of Mexico elected during a military dictatorship. It is earnestly hoped, however, by the administration that a way will be found to settle that tempestuous country on a basis of peace and tranquillity, as the country at large agrees with President Wilson that a fight with Mexico would certainly involve the loss of many lives of good American citizens, and that is to be avoided if possible.

As is well known the administration currency bill passed the house by a four to one vote, including 40 Republicans votes, and was sent to the Senate, which has referred it to the Committee on Banking and Currency, where it remains at the present time. This committee will finish its hearings on October 25th and then it appears it will be nearly a month before reporting the bill back to the Senate. The country is overwhelmingly supporting President Wilson in his efforts to secure the passage of this bill which is regarded by the people at large as the greatest master stroke of statesmanship enacted in the last fifty years.

Under the operation of this bill Wall Street will no longer control the country by controlling its money, as there will be twelve financial centers, in each one of which will be a government reserve bank, where money will be supplied to the constituent banks whenever it is wanted. These reserve banks will be entirely under the control of the Government at Washington where the fountains of money will be managed for the benefit of the people, instead of for Wall Street, as heretofore.

As soon as the tariff bill was signed thus completing the work of Hon. Oscar Underwood in the House, he announced himself as a candidate for the U. S. Senate to fill the existing vacancy caused by the death of Senator Johnston last summer. The announcement of Mr. Underwood's candidacy has elicited the most overwhelming compliments from all parts of the country that were ever bestowed upon the framer of any tariff bill. President Wilson is also very glad to have such a powerful leader and supporter of his policies added to the membership of the Senate and he has written a letter to congressman Clayton, the rival candidate, requesting him to withdraw from the race, which he has done.

The House now marks time while the Senate kills time on the Currency Bill.
